

Pavle Pavlovic /tourist&mountain guide/

Pavle's roots originated in the Serbian "Valley of the Kings" and the city of Kraljevo where he grew up. For more than 10 years he has been living and working in the Serbian and former Yugoslavian capital – Belgrade, where he graduated from the College of Tourism. Even though he has been working with leading tourism and hospitality organisations in the region for more than eight years, Pavle still belongs to a young generation of officially licensed tourist guides in Serbia. He achieved a tourist guide licence in 2015 and a Mountain Guide licence in 2017.

He is a regular member of the Tourist Guides Association of Serbia (UTVS) and he offers tours in English and Serbian. Pavle specialises in tours of nature, culture and gastronomy, all whilst incorporating sightseeing in Serbia. He also offers a number of different outdoor activities including hiking, trekking, MTB, cycling, bird watching, rafting and skiing too. His expertise, knowledge and personal relationships bring him confidence to coordinate large corporation events or to make a bespoke innovative and personalised itinerary for VIP guests, that correspond entirely to their wishes. He will offer good ideas to enhance your holiday experience, and will help you to understand the Serbian way of living and thinking; including the Serbian rich history, customs, religion and as well as what and how is made and produced in Serbia.

Through Pavle's work, studies and scientific articles, he is constantly trying to connect tourism with environmental protection. As a guide and a freelancer, Pavle finds time for his hobbies such as: sports, music, photography, travel or cooking. Travelers who joined his tours earlier described him on TripAdvisor as passionate, positive and friendly person. Travelling by unmarked roads of Serbia he likes to encounter guests with the locals and he always has got an ace up his sleeve. He offers a flexible and innovative approach to designing tours and will work hard to ensure his clients have a positive experience and an enjoyable holiday.
